M. Reclus, a Frenchman, has in mind "A project for the construction of a terrestrial globe on the scale of one to 100,000." This, of course, is for instruction in geography. It would be a little world 418 feet in diameter. It can be done, when it is worth the expense, and it may yet fill a long felt want. When a rich man appears who wants the earth and is willing to buy the whole world, the Reclus factory may turn him out a good duplicate. - New Orleans Picayune.

Eskimo Throwing Sticks.

In the first place, a "throwing stick," "throwing board," or "spear thrower," as it is sometimes called, is a contrivance for casting a javelin or harpoon, which is employed by various savage races, such as the Augtralians, some South American tribes, and especially by the Eskimos, among whom its use is almost universal. Roughly speaking, it is a narrow grooved board a foot or so long, with one end cut into a handle and the other provided with a stud or spur for the butt of the spear to rest against. It is used thus: Grasping the handle as he would a sword, the man fits the shaft of the spear into the groove, with the butt resting against the stud, steadying the spear with the finger. Then, extending his arm and bending back his hand till the spear lies horizontal, he aims at the mark and pro pels the weapon by a quick forward jerk of the stick. In this way I have seen the Eskimo boys casting their forked javelins at wounded waterfowl.

There is a very large number of Eskimo throwing sticks in the National Museum at Washington, collected from all the different branches of the race. These have been very carefully studied by Professor Otis T. Mason, one of the curators of the museum, and he has found that these implements differ greatly from each other in their details, while all are made on the same general plan. For instance, one kind will have a plain handle, while another will have projecting pegs, or holes or sockets, to give a firmer hold for the fingers, and so on.-Appletons' Popular Science Monthly.

A Big Eagle.

Ottawa Tribe No. 27, Red Men, of this city, has made a purchase that they are very proud of. It is one of the largest golden eagles ever killed in the West. It is nine feet from tip to tip, and has talons over nine inches It was shot a year ago in Ellsworth County, this State, on Smoky River, by Van Hart, a member of the Leavenworth Gun Club. He was out hunting and the eagle was about to swoop down and get his bird dog, when he shot it in the breast, using a Winchester rifle. The eagle is finely mounted and will be used by Ottawa Tribe during the conferring of a degree of the order, which the eagle is used to exemplify in several ways. Ottawa Tribe has a number of other stuffed birds and animals, and it is prepared to confer the degrees of the Red Men's Order in an impressive manner. -- Leavenworth (Kan.) Times.

The Town Will Be Moved.

Wentachee is the name of a little town in Washington which is located where there is no good water. To make matters worse the owners of the vacant property wanted too much money for it, and the town could not grow. Now the inhabitants have resolved to move the town two miles to the bank of the river, where land is cheaper.

Destitute of money, a man who gives his name as George Clarke walked into the Bank of New Amsterdam, at Broadway and Thirty-ninth street, New York City, in the 'noon hour," made his way past the guard into the private office of President George H. Wyckoff, demanded $6000, and when his demand was refused shot Mr. Wyckoff and

When Clarke approached Wyckoff he handed to the bank President a note, in which it was expressly stipulated that the $6000 was to be delivered under pain of instant death. to New York Hospital. There is a veil of mystery surrounding the identity of Clarke. In his periods of consciousness in the hospital he absolutely refused to talk about himself. Mr. Wyckoff has been prominent in banking circles in New York City for many years.

In many respects Clarke's crime is similar to that of the man Norcross, who attempted to kill Russell Sage when the old millionaire refused to give money to him. According to his own statement, made the hospital, the bank President read the letter through. This letter read:

"We want $6000 five one-thousand dollar bills and ten one-hundred dolar bills. "i will shoot you if you make a false move

"my partner outside also has you covered and if you alarm within three minutes after I leave he will throw a stick of dynamite through front entrance.

"dont talk." There was no signature attached to the let-ter. President Wyckoff saw before he had finished with it what sort of a man he had to deal with, and he made up his mind to act promptly.

"I am afraid," he said quietly, without looking up from the letter, "that I cannot accommodate you."

After making this statement Mr. Wyckoff took his eyes from the paper and gazed at the crank. At this minute the fellow leveled a pistol, which he had carried at his side during the time the President was reading the letter, at the head of the banker.

"You either give me the money," he said, "or I'll shoot you dead!"

The President, almost without thinking, imped from his deak and made a righ at jumped from his desk and made a rush at the man, intending to wrest the revolver from him. He had not moved a foot when there was a loud report, and the banker stag-gered back, shot in the abdomen. A second later there was another report, and the Presi-dent's assailant lay unconscious on the floor.

A ROMANCE OF CRIME.

A Tramp Punished for Squandering Train Robbers' Burled Booty.

A romance of crime as strange as any in fiction came to an end in San Francisco, Cal., when John P. Harmens, a professional tramp, was sentenced to three years in Folsom prison for stealing money belonging to Wells, Fargo & Co. Harmens was camping out on the banks of the Sacramento River out on the banks of the Sacrahento Liver two years ago when he saw two train rob-bers, Browning and Brady, bury $5,000 which they gained by holding up a Southern Pacific train near by. He dug up the coin, transferred and reburied most of it, and then began a career in San Francisco of riotous living. His idea of pleasure was to pose as a prince in "dives" and to drink champagne where he had formerly drank beer. The de-tectives discovered him only after he had squandered two-thirds of the stolen money. Harmens is a man of some education, but he is a confirmed tramp and will doubtless re-turn to the road when he has served out his

A POSTMASTER'S WIFE, LEEDS WOMAN WHO ASTONISHED

HER FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS. Near to Death But Restored so Completely That She Has Been Accepted by a Life Insurance Company as a Good Risk.

From the Journal, Lewiston, Me. A bright little woman, rosy and fresh from her household duties, dropped into a chair before the writer and talked with enthusiasm shining in her snapping, black eyes.

The people in the pretty village of Leeds Centre, Me., have watched with some interest the restoration to complete health of Mrs. W. L. Francis, wife of the Postmaster. So general were the comments on this interesting case that the writer who visited Mrs-Francis and learned from her that the statements regarding her troubles and her subsequent extrication therefrom are entirely true. All of her neighbors know what has been the agency that has performed this cure, but that others may be benefited by her experience, Mrs. Francis has consented to

"If there is anything on earth that I dread more than another," she said, "it is to see my name in the papers. But in this case I eonquer my repugnance and give publicly the same credit to the savior of my life as I would to not who had dragged me from a would to one who had dragged me from a death beneath the waves. In fact, I have extolled my preserver so enthusiastically and unreservedly; have sought out sufferers and recommended the remedy to so many friends and acquintances that already my neighbors and acquirtances that already my heighbors jocularly call me 'Pink Pills Francis.' But really, my recovery is something that I consider wonderful. I know that there are so many testimonials of medicine in the papers nowadays that people do not pay as much heed as formerly, but I do wish folks who are suffering would remember that what I say comes right from the heart of a woman who feels that she had a new lease of happy life given to her.

"Eleven years ago I was afflicted with nerrous prostration. My existence until two years ago was one of dragging misery. Any-one in the village will tell you of my condi-tion. My blood seemed exhausted from my yeins and month after month I grew weaker. I was able to undertake only the lightest household work, and even then I could perform it only by slow and careful movements.

"During all these sorry months and years I was under the care of this doctor and that, but their medicines helped meonly spasmodically, and then I fell into relapses more prostrating than ever.

"In the night I used to be awakened by the most every state of the search of the medicines helped in my heart and the most exeruciating pains in my heart and side, and was obliged to use pellets of powerful medicine that the doctor gave me for relief in such attacks. At last my condition became so grave that I went out only infrequently. We live upstairs, you notice, over my husband's store, and in descending the stairway I frequently was obliged to sort of fall and slide over the steps in order to descend, such was the strain on my system resulting from even this slight exertion. Oc-casionally I visited the neighbors, but I was obliged to sit and rest to recover breath while ascending any elevation. In short, it did not seem that I could live, such was my complete physical prostration.

"One day I saw an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and although my faith in remedies was weak by that time, I sent for a box and tried them. That was two years ago. Now I call myself a well woman. Isn't it wonderful?

"I haven't had one of those excruciating pains in the heart for a year and a half. Why, even the first box of pills helped me. I can walk miles now; can do my work easily; have gained in weight constantly, and you would scarcely believe it, but a little while ago I was examined for endowment life insurance and was accepted unbesitatingly after a careful examination by the phy

"Do you wonder that I'm shouting 'Pink Pills' all through our village? I haven't taken any of the remedy for some months for it has completely built me up, but at the first sign of trouble I know to what refuge to flee.

"Last year my aunt, Mrs. M. A. Blo-som, of "Last year my aunt, wisiting me. She Dixfield, P. O., was here visiting me. She was suffering from lack of vitality and heart trouble, but she was skeptical about my remedy that I was so enthusiastically advocatng. At last, however, she tried it and car-ied some home with her when she went. A little while ago I received a letter from he and in it said, 'I am cured, thanks to Gol and Pink Pilis.' She also wrote that her husband had been prostrated, but had been re-stored by the remedy.

"We feel up this way that such a sovereign cure cannot be too widely known. That is the only reason why I allow my name to be used in this connection. I know also that by personally recommending them I have helped many of my friends back to health.

for I never let an opportunity pass when a word of counsel may direct some one." One of the persons to whom Mrs. Francis recommended Pink Pil's is Station Agent C. H. Foster, of Leeds Centre, and the reporter found him patro ing the platform awaiting the arrival of the morning train. Mr. Fos-ter, who is one of the most trustworthy, capable and energetic men in the employ of the Maine Cen ral Railroad, appeared in un-usually good heath and spirits, and we made inquiry as to the cause. "Do you know," replied he, "I think I've made a discovery, or, at least, Mrs. Francis has for me. I have been in poor health for a long time with a heart trouble variously complicated. We have been so fully inter-ested in Mrs. Francis' wonderful recovery that I at once determined to give the medicine recommended a thorough test. So, about two months ago. I bought the first box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Only two months, please note, yet already I am so much improved, so much better able to fulfil my duties, so sanguine that I am on the road to ecovery, that I feel like a new man. "I can now walk without the fatigue I once experienced, my heart affection appears to be relieved, and I have joined the Pink Pills Band in our community."

Mr. Foster commenced taking the pills at a time when he was completely prostrated, af-ter he had suffered such a severe attack of heart trouble that it was necessary to carry him home from his office. Since then he has faithfully adhered to the remedy and is constantly improving, so much so as to excitable enthusiasm and his gratitude.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and estore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica. neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpi-tation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness, either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by address-ing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. After Thirteen Hundred Years.

European scholars have been very much puzzled of late over a discovery in Asia Minor of a handsome volume of the four gospels, dating as far back as the sixth century.

After a lapse of nearly 1300 years the volume is still in a splendid state of preservation. Not only is the copy complete in every detail, but such is the character of its embellishment that a more expensive and unique volnme is not to be found in existence.

Though gorgeously bound in stout material and rendered proof against the destructive agencies of time, at least for a period beyond which few York Post. relics have survived, the volume is still more curious perhaps in the character of its written contents. The pages, which are made of the finest quality of vellum, contain two columns each. The letters are written in gold and silver. Proper names, including those of saints and holy places, are written altogether in gold, while the rest of the text is in silver. The precious metals used in the production of this quaint volume are as bright and free from tarnish as if the ingenious workmanship had just been executed. Several years must have been consumed by the patient and laborious penman who undertook to accomplish this stupendous task. Perhaps, as some one has suggested, the volume is labor of love and may represent the long and tedious years of solitude lies, for which its author spent behind the walls of some old monastery.

The volume was found among the recesses of an old library in one of the deserted convents of Asia Mincr. The news of the discovery reached Constantinople only a few days ago.

The Russian Government has secured possession of the volume and will place it in the Russian National Museum for safe keeping among other rare and valuable curios.-Atlanta Constitution.

A Costly Challenge,

A necropolitan sculptor and marble worker of Reval, Russia, recently thought to enhance the attraction of his advertisements in a local journal by the announcement that he would pay $1500 to any person who could point out a flaw in the marble monuments and gravestones which he had placed in the Reval Cemetery. An engraver named Poloroff replied that if the sculptor would give security for the payment he would point out a number of flaws and faults. The latter said that such security was unnecessary as he was a man of his word. Polorotoff then proved his contention showing the rubbishy material and faulty work in a number of monuments, and in a suit to gain the $1500 won his case.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condi-tion of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, prompt-ly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneeffects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine arti-cle, which is manufactured by the Cali-fornia Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction

He proposes to utilize the strength in the back as an aid to the legs in propelling the wheel. The pedals are on a line with the bottom of the seat, and are placed in the front part of the frame. There is a back to the seat which affords a brace for the rider's back, enabling him to exert much more power than m the present model.
